

Massey-Vanier 're-energized' for the new school year

By Louise Smith

Former Heroes' Memorial students contemplate the changes on their first day in the high school.

Not only at the elementary schools, but at Massey-Vanier too, the first day is one of smiles and a fresh start. Marty Roberts, a Cycle One teacher, was echoing how the first day is always a fresh start. He said that last year ended on a good note and he was optimistic that the re-energized school with new teachers and returning teachers, new students and returning students, would continue on this positive path.

Some former Heroes' Memorial students were in the Cycle One area contemplating the start of a new stage in their education. They found the building bigger and were both excited and anxious about following a nine-day schedule.

Vivian Beaulac and Joshua Desrosiers are entering Secondary Four. Vivian can't believe there are only two years left to go at Massey-Vanier. She wants to study to be a teacher when she leaves. Joshua is following all advanced courses this year. When he finishes M-V, he will go to British Columbia to do a grade 12. He hopes to go into either aerospace or mining engineering.

Anthony Noiseux is in his final year at Massey-Vanier. He has been into sports heavily during and since his days at Heroes' Memorial. He is happy and can't wait for sports to begin. He is into soccer and basketball and hopes that volleyball will be offered this year. He is contemplating going into video game design in his future.

Julie Edwards, principal of Massey-Vanier, happily shows off the welcome sign for all on Day One.

The administrative team is made up again of Julie Edwards, Dave Scott, and Petra Bardon. They were all smiles on Day One, ready to welcome the students.

Dave Scott and Petra Bardon are the vice principals at M-V again this year.

ALL PHOTOS ARE COURTESY OF LOUISE SMITH

The Record, Sept. 13, 2016